WHERE THE WATER WHISPERS A MORNING AT LEKE-LEKE WATERFALL

There's a certain kind of hush that greets you as you start the trail to Leke Leke Waterfall, not the absence of sound but the presence of something deeper. A soft symphony of birdsong, bamboo leaves brushing in the breeze and the distant, steady rush of water calling from somewhere just ahead.

Tucked between jungle canopies and only about 4,6 km from Homm Saranam Baturiti, Leke Leke waterfall isn't the kind of place that announces itself with signs and crowds. It's a secret whispered through mossy stones and hanging vines, revealing itself slowly and one step at a time.

The path down is a short but scenic trek, over bamboo bridges, under tall tropical trees and alongside hidden garden corners that make you want to stop, breathe and linger. It's the kind of walk where time slows and your senses gently wake up again. Then, just like that, it appears.

WHERE TIMES MOVES WITH THE WIND A DAY IN JATILUWIH

There's a moment, just as you round the bend into Jatiluwih Tourism Village, when everything goes quiet, no honking bikes, no crowded beach bars, just the soft rustle of rice in the breeze and the gentle rhythm of village life. It's a kind of stillness you don't realize you've been missing until you're standing right in the middle of it.

Located just about 19,5 KM from Homm Saranam Baturiti, Jatiluwih feels like a step back in time. The landscape is a masterpiece, ancient rice terraces flowing like waves down the hillside, fed by a 9th-century irrigation system called subak, so brilliant and sacred, it earned the village a place on UNESCO's World Heritage list. But Jatiluwih isn't just a place to see, it's a place to feel.

You walk along narrow paths flanked by golden green fields. You stop to chat with a farmer or sip on young coconut at a roadside warung with a front-row seat to the valley. You breathe deeper because the air is cooler, cleaner, kinder.

For the curious, there's plenty to do like rent a bike and glide through the terraces, Join a village tour to learn about the subak system and local rituals, Take a Balinese cooking class using ingredients grown right there or simply sit and let the view do what it does best quiet your mind.

And when the day winds down, there's something comforting about returning to Homm Saranam Baturiti. The two places feel connected, not just by road but by a shared spirit of nature, tradition and calm. Whether you end your day with a soak, a spa session or just a warm cup of herbal tea overlooking the forest, you carry a little piece of Jatiluwih with you.

WHERE THE LAKE MEETS THE SKY, A JOURNEY TO PURA ULUN DANU BRATAN

Just a scenic drive from Homm Saranam Baturiti lies one of Bali's most iconic landmarks Pura Ulun Danu Bratan, a temple that seems to float gently on the calm surface of Lake Bratan. Set against the backdrop of misty mountains and cool highland air, this sacred site offers more than just a photo opportunity, it's a window into Bali's spiritual soul.

Built in the 17th century, the temple is dedicated to Dewi Danu, the goddess of water, lakes, and rivers. And fittingly so, as Lake Bratan is a vital water source for the region's farming communities including the rice terraces near Homm Saranam Baturiti that thrive thanks to the Subak irrigation system, which begins right here.

Wander through the beautifully manicured gardens, admire the traditional Balinese architecture and take a moment to just breathe it's quiet here, even when there are crowds. You can rent a paddle boat to drift across the lake, visit the on-site museum or simply sit by the water and take in the peaceful view.

There's also a small local market near the entrance where you can find souvenirs, handmade crafts and fresh strawberries grown in the cool Bedugul air. Guests staying at Homm Saranam Baturiti often make this trip part of a morning adventure. It's the perfect mix of culture, nature and serenity, just the kind of experience that makes a Bali journey unforgettable.

WHERE MIST MEETS THE MOUNTAINS, A GENTLE JOURNEY THROUGH BREW ME TEA PLANTATION

High in the cool highlands of Desa Mayungan, the air turns softer, the hills roll wider and a quiet calm settles over the landscape. It is here that Brew Me Tea Plantation welcomes visitors into a world shaped by mist, mountain light and the simple beauty of growing tea. Your journey begins with a walk through rows of vibrant green tea bushes that blanket the hillside. Guided by local tea farmers, you learn to identify different tea varieties and gently pick the young, tender shoots, the leaves that hold the freshest aromas and sweetest notes. The experience feels meditative, almost like moving with the rhythm of nature itself.

From the fields, the journey continues into the processing house, where freshly picked leaves begin their transformation. Here, you step inside the warm, fragrant rooms where tea is withered, rolled, fermented and dried. The process unfolds slowly and delicately, revealing how each step shapes the tea's final character. Watching it all feels like witnessing a quiet craft honed through generations. Afterward, the day eases into something even more relaxing, a picnic lunch set inside a charming gazebo overlooking the plantations and the valley below. Surrounded by fresh air and sweeping highland views, you enjoy a simple yet comforting meal paired with freshly brewed tea from the very leaves you saw just moments before.

The experience is gentle, grounding, and deeply connected to the land, a refreshing escape into nature's calm, and a beautiful reminder that some of the most meaningful journeys are the quiet ones.
